CONFRENCE OF PIONEER STAKE

Twelfth Quarterly Gathering of One of the City's Four Stakes Largely Attended.

AFTERNOON AT TABERNACLE.

steresting Addresses Delivered and Gratifying Reports Are Received From Various Organizations.

The morning session of the Twelfth quarterly conference of the Ploneer stake of Zion was held yesterday at 10 o'clock in the Stake hall. There were esent of the general authorities, Presidents John R. Winder and Francis M. Lyman and Elders John Henry Smith, Rudger Clawson, and George Albert Smith. The authorities and organizations of the stake were fully represent-

The meeting commenced by the con-regation singing the hymn, "Come let us anew." Prayer was offered by Elder George A. Smith. Continued by singing "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire." President Wm. McLachlan concisely reported the condition of the stake, He regid that us those who accumulate reported the condition of the stake, He said that as those who accumulate wealth desire still more, so the stake authorities, in reviewing the progress made during 1906, were desirous of seeing still more progress made by the stake. While there was a seeing still more progress made by the stake. While there was a general condition that was satisfactory, not all the wards and quorums were alike. There was a difference between siike. There was a difference between them corresponding to the activity of the presiding officers.

Prest. McLachlin, in reporting the large increase in the amount of tithing and fast offerings paid by the saints during the year, said it indicated a very prosperous condition among the Latter-day Saints. The effect of keeping these laws of the Gospel was to give stability and strength of faith to those who observe them, because the lesson of sacrifice is thus learned. sacrifice is thus learned.

MRS. CANNON SPEAKS.

President Annie Wells Cannon in re-orting the stake Relief Societies, said hey were increasing in membership and activity. She attributed much of d activity. She attributed into the progress of the past year to the ding of ward Relief Society conferes and in giving a general outline of new courses of study and work, Siscannon told of the missionary work. e societies have begun in behalf of the L. M. I. A. and the Primary asso-

Stake Clerk C. H. Cariquist read a complete statistical report of the stake for the year 1996.

Prest. Chas. H. Hyde explained the reasons why the stake presidency had organized quorums in all the wards except one. He also commended the acquiring of wheat by the Relief societies.

Prest David McKenzie reported the iring of wheat by the Rellef societies. Prest. David McKenzle reported the ligh Priests' quorum, which at present as a membership of 109, with an average attendence of 60 per cent.

He further addressed the meeting upon the growth and power of habit and so use the knowledge of this fact would be put to in educating the young ople to become Latter-day Saints. SUNDAY SCHOOL CHANGES.

Elder James N. Lambert, stake suof the Sunday schools, was not lagging but in a a the work was not lagging but in a ter condition than the previous year. It is stake superintendency had been restly reorganized because of the death Elder Carl J. Larsen and the reval of Elder Wm. A. Wetzel, Jr., for indefinite time. Elder Theodore T. ton and C. N. Christensen had been seted to fill the vacancies and the ke board was thus again prepared to he their work. During the year four. ush their work. During the year four arent's classes have been organized. President S. Q. Cannon presented the eral and stake authorities. All were meral and stake authorities. All were manimously sustained.

Eder George Albert Smith said in effecting the meeting that the statistical report indicated that a great deal is labor had been performed during be year by the stake and ward officers or which he commended them. One equilar thing about the gospel was that the more one worked in it the feer one wished to work and the greatistic of idd one feel, while on he other hand if one neglected to do is duty that feeling grew and he examined the same reason that those who has as teachers learn the truth and with the corrected.

was for the same reason that those who labor as teachers learn the truth and make the greatest progress.

Eider Rudger Clawson said he was reminded by the reading of the stake report of the beautiful story of Hanhah and Daniel wherein was emphasized the disgrace that women in anothers. He spoke upon the tendency in the world to avoid the responsibilities of parenthood because the demands of society and club life leave no place for children. According to reports in some sections of the country in the section in t or children. According to reports in one sections of the country if it was been sections of the country if it was been sections. Because of expense coming fathers are the obligation of coming fathers are mes welld not assume the obligation of becoming fathers and husbands. Serious consequences would come to any sation where there is this ignoring of the command of God to Adam and Eve. Elder Clawson said the fact that one-burth of the population of the stake was comprised of children under 8 rears of age was a striking proof that the Latter-day Saints were not avoiding their responsibilities.

their responsibilities, President John R. Winder commended the reports given and endorsed the re-marks of President McLachian in re-sard to work. He referred to his own life and his constant work and said he had learned that one surely receives every promised blessing if one labors for it.

The meeting adjourned until the aftenoon after singing "Come, follow me, the Savior said." Benediction was pro-hounced by Elder Joseph J. Cannon.

AFTERNOON MEETING.

Large Congregation Present in the Tabernacle.

Tabernacie.

The afternoon session of the conferme convened in the tabernacie at 3 to m, and was presided over by Countelor Sylvester Q. Cannan. "Glorious hills of thee are spoken" was sungly the choir, and the invocation was offered by Elder D. J. Williams. "Author of faith eternal word" was the seat hymn tendered.

Elder David McKenzie was the first seaker, and he dwelt upon the investation of scientists and astronomers lative to the different cycles of time. A was shown that discoveries along the lines proved conclusively the difficult of the prophecies of Daniel and the Apostle John. Reference was sale to the measurement of time by sans of clocks and other devices, but a speaker pointed out that these did to meet the requirements of science, shich demanded calculators and measurements for the determination of

CHESSEAUX ON DANIEL. One hundred and fifty years ago a astronomer, Chescelebrated Swiss astronomer, Chesseaux, undertook to investigate these matters with a view to ascertaining the precise date of the crucifixion of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. He was led to peruse the prophecies of Daniel, referring to future events. Upon re-ferring to his books he found that 315 years was a fairly good cycle, lacking only about 2½ hours. The astronomer was astonished to find, in reading the book of Daniel, that the period of 1250 years is referred to repeatedly, and he soon discovered that 315 years, which he had found to be a fair cycle, which he had found to be a fair cycle, was exactly one-fourth of 1260, the period of time referred to in Daniel, though it is there caused days. These were periods when great political and religious events should occur. Investigating Daniel's prophecy further he found another period referred to was 2,330, another cycle almost as perfect as 1,260, but the variation between the correctness of them set him further to work and he reasoned that in as much as the one cycle would indicate too much of one side, the other cycle would have a similar tendency, so he concluded that the intermediate would be perfection—This was 1040, which he found was the exact division between the two other cycles, and was a complete cycle withcycles, and was a complete cycle with-out fault. Mr. Chesseaux submitted this intelligence to the French acad-emy where they were referred to two emine nt scientists, who after investiga-tion declared that it was impossible to doubt the conclusions reached in Mr. Chesseaux's essay but they could not conceive how or why they should have been embodied in holy Scripture. The scientist realized that the next new moon at the vernal equinox would occur in Alexandria in Egypt on the 10th of March 1789. He had access to the records giving the research of Ptolemy, the ancient Grecian astronomer. He emine nt scientists, who after investigathe ancient Grecian astronomer. He referred back twice 1040, which is 2080, and ascertaiged when the new moon occurred at Alexandria and he found the date to be the 26th day of March, 202 before Christ. That, however, was in the old style of years and in the present calculation it was 1789. His computer calculation it was 1789. His computa-tion showed a difference of 16 years, which harmonizes exactly with the dif-ference that had grown out of the two classes of time measuring and he found that the variation between the new moon of the vernal equinox at the one time as compared with the other was exactly 2080 years lacking four and a half minutes, which slight difference might be due to lack of suitable astromight be due to lack of suitable astronomical instruments to get at the exact truth. In the days of Daniel nothing was known of cycles and the astronomer asks the question: "If Daniel was not inspired of God how was it possible for him to select those three periods of time to indicate marvelous events that were to come." These investigations carry great weight in establishing the divinity of the Bible.

PRESIDENT LYMAN SPEAKS.

PRESIDENT LYMAN SPEAKS.

President F. M. Lyman spoke first of the efficient labor that is being performed by the saints of Pioneer stake and in the Church, due to the fact that the Lord has employed a great many hands and they are laboring under divine guidance and authority. Considering the population of the Church, it is remarkable how many men and women are engaged in this work, and how much is accomplished, when it is knowr that the Latter-day Saints, like other people, have to labor to obtain the necessaries of life. It was shown by Elder Lyman, that there is no royal road to learning; there is no royal road to produce the state of the saints of the saints of the saints. Lyman, that there is no royal road to learning; there is no royal road to produce the fruitfulness of the earth; and there is no royal road to produce the fruitfulness of the gospel. It takes constant labor, early and late. If we wish to gain these things we must persever—A man who is lazy and indifferent cannot acquire learning nor can be receive the blessings of the earth, and the speaker declared that such a man, lazy, and indifferent, will not be saved in the kingdom of heaven.

STEADY PROGRESS.

Elder Lyman spoke of the progress made by the saints in 1906 as compared to 1905, and while the improvement was inarked yet there is ample room for improvement and he urged the saints to persevere and improve in their lives to become better qualified for the labors of the future as well as the present Mention was made of the work that lies before the Church in the way of preaching the gospel, and he declared that every cerature should hear thesame either in the flesh or in the spirit. Speaking of conditions in the world. Elder Lyman declared that light and in telligence are increasing, and many will come to a knowledge of the gospel of salvation. While mankind may have the opportunity of receiving the gospel even after this mortal life is closed, and while it is possible for some of this work to be done in their behalf, vet it is altogether better that a man should do his own work, perform his own mission, and work out his own salvation. The Scriptures tell us that it is more blessed to do than to have something done for us. It is a good thing that we can labor for our kindred, living and dead; but it is far better that they should labor for themselves.

LOVES THE OBEDIENT.

The Lord loves those who are obedient, said the speaker, and strive to keen. His commandments. He loves those who desire to learn and are looking for truth, and every man is entitled to know the truth, for if a man does the will of God on the earth he shall know of the doctrine, whether it is true or not. If the people of the world will take the keynote that is sounded in the Scriptures they can soon learn the truth of this doctrine, for the Lord has laid down this simple truth that if any man will do the will of the Father has shall know of the doctrine. The Latter day Saints have done the will of the Father and therefore they know of the doctrine.

In closing Elder Lyman bore his tes.

timony to the divinity of this work and urged the saints to live uprightly every day, to deal justly and fairly with all and to strive for the uplifting of all manking.

The choir sang, "Redeemer of Sask" Benediction by Charles H. Hyda.

EVENING SESSION.

Interesting Meeting Held in the Stake

The evening session was held in the stake hall at 6:30. After the opening exercises the sacrament was administered under the direction of Bishops Carl A. Ek and Frank Stanley.

Elder Andrew Jenson requested the saints to hunt up all old journals and certificates of ordinations that contain data in regard to the early history of data in regard to the early history of the Church and file them with the Church historian's office in order that access could be had to all information that will close up some gaps in the early history of the Church.

ELDER GEORGE A. SMITH.

Elder George Albert Smith said the divinity of the Book of Mormon could be established from within its own covers. He read prophecies contained in the writings of the Second Nephi in regard to the gathering of the Jews and regard to the guthering of the Jews and the growth among them of a reverence for the name of Jesus Christ. He pointed to the fact that previous to 1830 when the Book of Mormon was published no movement of gathering had commenced among the Jews, while today there are organized societies among them in every land for the furthering of the Zionist movement.

He also quoted the opinions of prominent Jewish rabbis regarding Jesus Christ showing that many among the Jews today acknowledge Jesus Christ as a great and good man. This change of sentiment had all occurred since the publishing of the Book of Mormon in contrast to the bitter feelings that the Jews at that time held regarding the Savior.

Elder Smith also spoke upon the exact fulfillment of Book of Mormon prophecies regarding the form of gov-ernment that would be allowed by God upon the Land of Zion.

These facts and fulfillments of Book

These facts and fulfillments of Book of Mormon prophecies compel the honest heart to either believe that Joseph Smith translated the writings of ancient prophets as he claims he did or else they clearly show that he was a prophet himself.

Mrs. Mabel Poulton Kirk sang the solo "Face to Face."

ELDER RUDGER CLAWSON. Elder Rudger Clayson in speaking upon the prosperity that was evidenced by the increased tithing that had been paid, cautioned the people to exercise great care in contracting obligations and gave it as his opinion that before invest their means they should provide their families with a home and save a living.

He exhorted the people to prepare for times of financial stringency which are sure to come judging the future by the past. He advised economy, and frugality, saving a small malance in the bank was a good thing when hard times come and men are thrown out of work.

PRESIDENT F. M. LYMAN. President Francis M. Lyman gave practical instructions in regard to properly seating meeting places of the saints. He also spoke upon the administering of the sacrament and its sacredness and meaning and the effect it has upon those who honestly partake of it.

In speaking of prosperity and hard times he said "Get out of debt if you are in and do not go in if you are out." In concluding he gave instructions in regard to the conditions that candidates for baptism should conform with before they are baptized.

A solo was sung by Elder John D. Bowers, "The Golden Pathway."

ELDER S. Q. CANNON. ELDER S. C. CANNON.

Elder S. Q. Cannon said he rejoiced in the excellent spirit and attention which had characterized the conference. It would probably be the last time for some time to come that he would have the privilege of addressing the saints in conference, as he had been called by the Church authorities to labor abroad. He asked the blessing of God upon the stake and promised the saints great things if they would as Latter-day Saints rise to their destiny and do those things that God expects of His people. He counseled the saints to embrace every opportunity for imor his people. He counseled the saints to embrace every opportunity for improvement either in the family or the ward. In speaking upon the duties of parents he said if they would teach their children so that they would have more influence over them than any one else they would never have sorrow come to them through their acts. to them through their acts.

The conference adjourned after sing-ing "Our God we raise to Thee." The benediction was pronounced by President John R. Winder.

IN UTAH DESEOT

It Lies in Tooele County tween Pilots Peak and Ibapa.

TWENTY MILES IN LENGTH.

Placer Claims Being Filed Upon it But There is Some Question as To Their Legality.

That Utah has in addition to a Great Salt Lake, a great sea af salt lying flat in the desert sands of Tooele county, is not generally known. Yet it is a fact, and there is right now before the land board a problem as to who shall get possession of it.

The board has appealed the case to the general government for decision, through the Utah congressional delegation, and when the decision is rendered it will be known whether or not a great number of placer claims now filed on the land are legal. In the meantime the claims are on fite with the Tooele coun-

Senator Peter Clegg of Tooele county, confirms the stories of a sea of sait out in the desert. It is one more manifestation of the fact that when the wise men of 40 years ago scarned the west, branded it as a vast expanse of sandy lasery hopeless and useless, they just of 40 years ago scarned the west, branded it as a vast expanse of sandy desert, hopeless, and useless, they just took a long range view, instead of inspecting is closely. For this the government naid dearly in railroad land grants, while Salt Lake pioneers, and the Moapa valley picneers served to turn over the ancient theory, each one in its particular day and generation. With the coming of the railroad, making it possible to get the goods to a market, there is a significant discovery of values in western desert lands, and this salt deposit is the latest. Other such manifestations of undreamed of opportunity come from Moapa valley, where they are putting in great truck gardens to supply Salt Lake, from Millard county where they are planning irrigation canals to water 24,000 acres of land, and Deep Creek where mining agitation has followed the building of the Salt Lake Route, with the possibilities of a Deep Creek branch.

CLEGG'S VIEW.

"Yes, sir," says Senator Clegg "there is a lot of sait out there. It is a foot to eight feet deep, and the bed lies in the desert, away over near the west edge of it. The tract is eight or ten miles wide, and from 20 to 20 miles long, according to various estimates. The sait is pure and white, and is packed as hard as a rock. Cowboys for 20 years have been galloping over it. They talk of it as the stretch of hard, white pavement out in the desert, and your outomobilists would find a wonderful speed stretch if you ever wanted to hold a contest with an ideal natural pavement to run on."

ON WESTERN EDGE.

ON WESTERN EDGE. When asked how to get to the salt bed, Senator Clegg said that it iles between Pilot's peak, and Ibaps, and the track runs northward through the desert.

"Do you think it could be the old mouth of the Sevier river, which used to run into the lake from that direction?" was asked.

"No." replied Senator Clegg, "it seems to be from a big salt spring, the water of which is very salty, located near Ibapa. The water from this spring has spread out over the land and evaporated year after year while the deposit has grown. The Western Pacific will pass through it, and this makes a lively demand to locate salt claims."

THE LAND LAW.

As to whether the claims will stand, Senator Clegg was not so certain, and referred the interviewer to the secretary of the land board. The provisions of section 8 of the enabling act are that 110,000 acres of land, "including all saline lands." are set apart for the use of the University of Utah.

If this land is judged to be "saline" land, of course it becomes part of the state land grant, and proceeds of its sale go to the university funds. However, a salt claim is generally construed as a mineral proposition, and may be filed upon the same as any other minas a mineral proposition, and may be filed upon the same as any other mineral claim, as a placer proposition. In that case the government would be the owner, and the miner would have a right to dig and ship the salt. If the bed were unknown to exist, and "saline" lands were mentioned, the term would be construed to apply to the vast stretches of alkali land and water legged land that surround the lake and vast stretches of alksli land and water logged land that surround the lake, and that are general in other parts of the state. If this idea should prevall, miners may get rid of the salt, by working placer claims, and then the university will inherit the land on which the bed was located. The decision on the matter from Washington is awaited with great interest by those who have staked out claims on the property, intending to hold them till the Western Pacific is ready to begin salt shipments. Alaska's Gold Ontput—J. C. McKel-ium and wife of Fairbanks, Alaska, are at the Knutsford. They are on a visit to every state in the Union and Cuba and are just nearing the end of their extended travels. "Alaska produced last year $21,000,000 in gold, with Colorado $2,000,000 ahead of her with Colorado $2,000,000 ahead of her but the coming year's production is expected to reach figures in the neighborhood of $40,000,000," says Mr. Mc-Kellum. "The districts of Alaska are the Dawson or Yukon, covering an area of 450 square miles; the Nome, about 200 square miles and the Fairbanks or Tanana district, covering an area of 350 square miles. The last district contributed $12,000,000 worth of gold to Alaska's total output last year. The railroad being built by the Guggenheim syndicate from Valdez on the coast into the interior via Fairbanks, the camp, will open the world's greatest copper region. Mines are banks, the camp, will open the world's greatest copper region. Mines are sunk in Alaska by the aid of pipes perforated at the end and filled with steam. These thaw the frozen ground and make work possible. John Bechtol and son Charles are in Alaska and are developing a rich mine. Both expect to make fortunes. Both are former Salt Lakers." From Salt Lake Mr. and Mrs. McKeilum will journey towards their frigid home.
